DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after allowance. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the allowability of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on April 16, 2009 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

2. Applicant's amendment filed on April 16, 2009 has been considered and entered in full.

3. Applicant amendments to the claims have been entered. In the previous office action mailed on 01/22/2009, claim 23 and all the claims depending on claim 23 were allowed at least by dependency on claim 23. In the amendment filed on 04/16/2009, applicant had significantly amended the claims such that the claim 23 does not recite the same allowed limitations any more, claim 41 which was dependent on claim 23 has now been presented as an independent claim and another independent claim 56 along with its dependent claims have been newly added. Before, only one independent claim (claim 23) was provided for examination, and since claim 23 was allowed, none of the dependent claims were needed to be examined. Claim 41 which was dependent on claim 23 was therefore not required to be examined and is now presented as independent claim. The patentability of application/claims is defined by the independent claim(s) and as per the amendment provided in the instant amendment, all independent claims are different and have different subject matter, therefore these claims as filed are subject to the election/restriction requirements.

Election/Restrictions

4. The application contains claims 23-45 and 50-60 directed to the following patentably distinct species:

Species I. Claims 23-40 and 50-54 describe the invention which is directed to evaluating the image quality which includes recording plurality of image sample, improving the quality of these image samples and determining characteristic numbers that are characteristic of deformation of wavefront deformation caused by the imaging system

Species II. Claims 41-45 and 55 describe the invention which is direction to evaluating the image quality with respect to amplitude distribution and phase front distribution which further requires exchanging the known sample for a sample which is to be examined and whose optical characteristics are still unknown.

Species III. Claims 56-60 describe the invention which is directed to evaluating image quality with request to image sample characteristics which further includes separating images of the measured image stack from corresponding images of the simulated image stack to obtain images of the measured image stack that are freed from the characteristics of the imaging system.

The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Art Unit: 2624

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Art Unit: 2624

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.
